Amity Human Values Quarter 2020

The Amity Human values Quarter (popularly known as the AHVQ) is observed every year from 27th of January to 27th of April, to commemorate the birthday of Dr. (Mrs.) Amita Chauhan, Chairperson- Amity International Schools, and instills human values and ethics in all the students studying in the institutions affiliated to Amity university. Albert Einstein had once said, “Try not to become a man of success but rather, a man of values,” and we at Amity University are firm believers of this principle. AHVQ is a forum for students to introspect and realize the importance of values and morals in our daily lives. It urges the students to take a break from their hectic academic schedule and daily chores to realign the priority directed to ethics.

Today, when the World is going through an outbreak of a pandemic and grappling to find solution to prevent the spread of an infectious disease (Covid -19), the importance of responsibility, humility, care, benevolence and all other human values become all the more important. In these tough times, it is the values of an individual that help him sail through. This Year AHVQ activities comprised of online and offline events conducted during regular and lock down time. These activities comprise of meaningful events ranging from enriching literary to cultural performances, expert talks and visit to schools of the less privileged. The purpose of these events is to dawn upon a realization in the students and help them understand and instill values and ethics in their personality.

Faculty of Business

Administration/Commerce/Management/Finance

Today, the world of business-management is acting as an engine which drives the economic, technological and social progress that we make as a society, in a systematic and efficient manner. It is of utmost importance in managing, channelizing and coordinating the change that drives us as a society, such that we may reap the optimum benefits. The Faculty of Management Studies at Amity University, Noida, has long been a trailblazer in acting as a Launchpad, for inculcation of human values, ethic and morals in the sterile world of business and management. It is our firm belief that management that lacks a human aspect is insufficient to encompass the humane sensitivities and requirements and to satisfactorily deliver on the inclusive humanitarian front. Consequently, The Amity Human Values Quarter for the Faculty of Management Studies is extensively curated and draws enthusiastic participation, an indicator for the promising future of value-management ahead.

Faculty of Hotel management/Hospitality/Tourism/Travel

In all industries and endeavors that humanity is engaged in, the importance of human value development and inclusion in the field of Hospitality and Tourism cannot be overstated. The industry relies prominently upon, among other things, employing a humanely understanding, empathetic and sensitive approach towards provision of service to ensure maximum satisfaction. In such an industry, an educational experience that does not include a value building aspect puts graduates at a serious disadvantage. Thus, at Amity University, apart from the enriching growth development that is undertaken as part of the curriculum, initiatives like the Amity Human Value Quarter equip students to be armed with the necessary skill set which can set them up for success.

Faculty of Architecture, Planning & Interior Design

Design and Architecture is defined as the art and science of designing buildings and structures. A wider definition would include within this scope the design of any built environment, structure or object, from town planning, urban design, and landscape architecture to furniture and objects. Architectural design values make up an important part of what influences architects and designers when they make their design decisions. The relationship between humans and buildings has long been a superficial one. Different design values tend to have a considerable history and can be found in numerous design movements. The influence that each design value has had on design movements and individual designers has varied throughout history. At the Amity university, Noida initiates the Amity Human Value Quarter for the Design and Architecture. In this, we motivate the students to reallocate the places and define the left-over edges.
