

From the desk of Editor-in-Chief

It gives me immense pleasure to present the second issue of BRICS Perspective: A Journal of Strategic Analysis and Policy Relevance. Building on the foundation laid by our inaugural volume, this issue continues our endeavour to offer rigorous scholarship, informed analysis, and diverse viewpoints on themes central to the evolving BRICS agenda. As the BRICS grouping expands and its global relevance deepens, our commitment to fostering meaningful dialogue and policy-oriented research becomes ever more significant.

The Amity Centre for BRICS Studies, established under the vision and guidance of our Hon'ble Chancellor, Dr. Aseem Chauhan, remains steadfast in its mission to promote multidisciplinary research and strategic engagement on BRICS-related issues. Over the years, we have strengthened partnerships with eminent scholars, diplomats, think tanks, and institutions across BRICS and beyond. This collaborative spirit is strongly reflected in the rich contributions featured in this issue.

This edition brings together nine insightful articles and an exclusive expert interview, each addressing a unique dimension of BRICS cooperation, from geopolitics and global governance to culture, development, and civilizational dialogue. Together, these contributions reflect the diversity, depth, and dynamism that characterize contemporary BRICS scholarship. They affirm our belief that the BRICS platform is not only a geopolitical or economic grouping but also a powerful space for dialogue, cooperation, and shared aspirations.

This second issue of BRICS Perspective seeks to contribute to the ongoing global conversation on the future of the alliance. We are confident that these articles will stimulate further thought, research, and collaboration among scholars, policymakers, and practitioners.

I extend my sincere appreciation to all contributors and our editors whose effort has made this publication possible. I hope our readers find this issue enriching, thought-provoking, and reflective of the Centre's ongoing commitment to excellence.
