Enclose event report along with glimpses of the event (Photographs) The Department of Dietetics and applied Nutrition under the supervision of Dr. Luxita Sharma, Head, DAN, AMS organised the community visit to anganwadi center, Baghanki village.

Students of M.Sc. programme II & IV semester, 17 in number, accompanied by two faculties Ms. Apoorva Tandon and Ms. Deepika Pal, visited the centre for imparting the nutrition education. The topic of the visit was nutrition education for infants, Pregnant and lactating women.

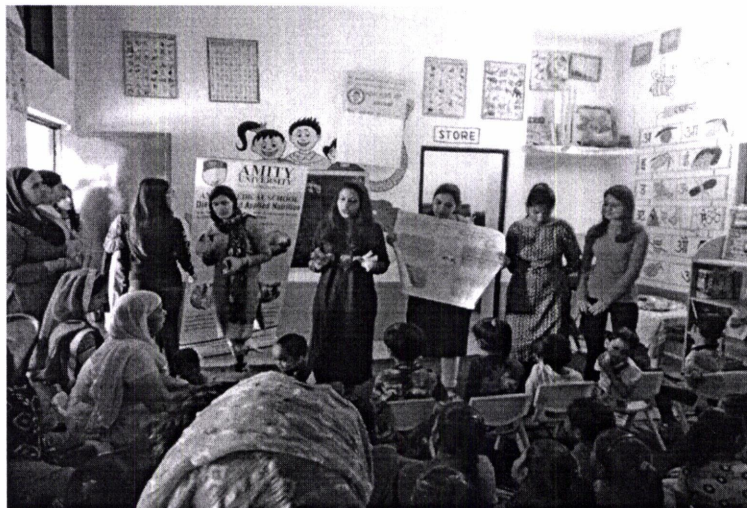

The students and faculties reached around 11:00am to the centre. First the students of MDAN semester IV, gave introduction of themselves and then had a general talk with the children. They then explained about the general hygiene, focusing on steps of washing hands and keeping them clear before and after meals.

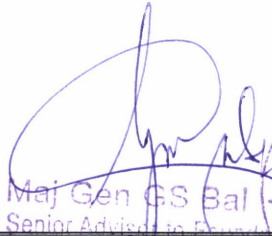

After this the students used charts and posters as the audio-visuals aids and explained the women about the various dietary tips and nutritional modifications required during the time of pregnancy and lactation. The women interact with the students and cleared the queries.

The students of MDAN II interact with the school going girls and created awareness about menstrual hygiene. In the end, the Bhelpuri was served prepared by the students. Overall this visit helped in imparting an influential nutrition education and learnt how to deal with the community people

Date: 22 February 2019, Friday

Venue: Aanganwadi Centre, Baghanki Village

Organized by: Dr. Luxita Sharma

Participation Number of Students if any: 19 students

Point wise highlights of the Event: A community visit was organized at Aanganwadi Centre, Baghanki Village by Dr. Luxita Sharma, HOD & Associate Professor, Department of Dietetics & Applied Nutrition, Amity Medical School. The purpose of the visit was to impart nutrition education and aware the children and their guardians about general hygiene and sanitation. Students of M.Sc. II Semester and IV Semester were accompanied by two faculty members- Ms. Richa Singh, AP II and Ms. Apporva Tandon, AP I. All students along with faculties left the University campus at 11:00 a.m. and reached the village aanganwadi at 11:15 a.m. They were addressed by Ms. Poonam, the main worker at the aanganwadi and other helpers. There were around 15 children in the centre, belonging to the age group of 2- 7 years. All the children were given instructions about general nutrition education and hygiene in an interactive and collaborative manner. The students also performed a story telling session, recited a poem and also performed some dance to engage the children.

After this interactive and engaging session, all the children were individually weighed and height was noted and finally, the students distributed a nutritious kaalachanachaas as a snack to the children, which they enjoyed and relished. The day ended with a group photograph of all individuals present.

The community visit proved to be very fruitful for the students as well as the village people. The students got practical exposure and knowledge about working in a community and undertaking data collection, while on the other hand the villagers got nutrition education which may help in improving their health.

Colour is one of the most noticeable attributes of the world around us and for small children, understanding colour is an essential building block they will use for learning in all areas of their life. Colour recognition can provide children with essential learning tools in life. Not only does colour play an important role in the overall aesthetic of a space, it can also impact an individual's mood, emotional wellbeing, productivity, learning and behavior of the young children.

The visit was about an empowering interaction with the students of the government school by organizing a thumb painting activity amongst them to make a fun and learning environment for them and thus encouraging them with gifts for their participation.

Students went from the ASAP department with sheets and stationary for the students to conduct the painting activity.

“HAND HYGIENE TECHNIQUE”

Submitted By: Ms. Rashmi Rohilla, Tutor (ACON) , Ms. Simpi Raheja tutor, (ACON)

On 23/03/18 hand hygiene technique was organized by Students of B. Sc Nursing 2nd SEM, Amity College of Nursing. It was a day activity conducted in OPD area of Rockland Hospital.

The aim of conducting this Programme was to increase the awareness among the people regarding
“HAND HYGIENE TECHNIQUE”

Students explained regarding the hand hygiene techniques, about the importance of hand hygiene, why we should practice hand washing, methods and steps of hand washing techniques with the help of role play and pamphlets, charts.

Washing our hands is the best way to stop germs from spreading. Many of the germs causing diseases are transferred by hand. Using proper hand hygiene to keep hands clean is critical to reducing the risk of health care associated infection in patients as well as care givers.

Proper hand hygiene is the single most important, simplest and least expensive mean of reducing the prevalence of hospital acquired infections. Patients and visitors have an important role to play in ensuring hand hygiene throughout hospital. So the goal here is to inform people regarding techniques, steps and importance of maintaining hand hygiene

Outcome of the activity:

This community visit was organized on 13th February 2015 by department of Dietetics and Applied nutrition involving faculty Dr. Luxita Sharma and students of BDAN 2nd & 4th semester and MDAN 2nd semester. In the first visit students came back with the duly filled questionnaire and later brief analysis was done to understand malnutrition in the community. It was found that malnutrition was present among the children of the villagers. Despite they disclosed that they eat healthy and local food, even then prevalence of malnutrition was seen. The signs of malnutrition were very much prevalent as their head circumference was not in the required range. The height and weight was below the normal range. It was found that 80 percent of the children were suffering from under nutrition and underweight.

So students had an interaction with the mothers of the children and were advised about the health of their children. They were told that the growth of their children was not proper and they need to give proper diet and nourishment to their children. They were educated about the importance of nutrition at early age is important for proper growth and development. Total 51 patients were counseled by the students of Dietetics and Applied Nutrition in the second community visit. This community visit was fruitful for students as well as for the village people. As students got practical exposure and knowledge about working in a community while villagers got nutrition education which will help in reducing prevalence of malnutrition, hence a symbiotic relationship was established among students and community.

Outcome of the activity:

The activity was organized on 13th January 2015 by department of Dietetics and Applied nutrition involving faculties Dr. Luxita Sharma and Ms Richa Singh along with students of BDAN 4th semester and MDAN 2nd semester. The activity involved a community visit to Padha village, Haryana, to evaluate nutritional status of local school children. The students gave nutrition education and told about the healthy food options the local children need to include in their diet. At first students found out the problems persistent among the villagers in terms of their health and deficiency disorders. A standardized questionnaire made by students was filled by our students by asking face to face questions about their medical history, eating habits and the food options available to them. It was found that the villagers were eating food locally available and they were unaware about many food products available in the markets. Since this was initial stage and first camp, this made it challenging in finding the problem regarding the diseases persistent among them. The villagers were not very friendly and the information was not given properly as felt during the session, but students tried to build rapport and break the ice. Overall the session helped the students to understand the process of data collection in community. It also helped them to polish their communication skills.
