MESSAGE

A nation's development is highly contingent upon healthy mind, body, and spirit. The state of mental health of youth of a nation is of paramount importance in determining future destiny and excellence. Almost half of Indian adults will experience a mental distress at some point in their life. Mood disorders, anxiety, substance abuse and other conditions do not discriminate, and can affect anyone. But psychosocial support and treatment can help. The organisation of mental health services demands a wide variety of interventions, ranging from public awareness, early identification, treatment of acute illness, family education, counseling, psychotherapies, long-term medical and social care, rehabilitation, reintegration and ensuring of human rights of the ill persons etc. In addition, mental disorders consist of a wide variety of clinical conditions, some self-limiting (eg. acute stress reaction) and others lifelong (eg. Intellectual disability).

The concepts of mental health and wellbeing are increasingly gaining prominence in modern times. Mental health encompasses emotional, psychological, spiritual and social well being. Besides approaches like Psychoanalysis, Behavior therapy and Cognitive behavior therapy, newer approaches like Mindfulness based interventions, Positive Psychotherapy and Spiritually augmented interventions are emerging as promising paradigms for improving the mental health and wellbeing. The constructs of optimism, resilience, well being and happiness are utilized in standard interventions for various psychological problems.

Faculty of Management and Behavioral Sciences-Amity Institute of Behavior and Allied Sciences and Amity Institute of Clinical Psychology Behavior are contributing immensely in nation building through academics, research, human resource development and service delivery. The national conference on mental health and well being aims to orient the scientific community and students in recent developments in knowledge, research and best practices in the areas of mental health and wellbeing. The national conference will provide an opportunity for knowledge sharing and academic discussions to professionals, researchers and students of psychology and allied disciplines.

Dr Padmakali Banerjee
Pro Vice Chancellor
