

Campus Bird Count - 2020

Citizen science is increasingly becoming an extremely helpful tool to understand trends in abundance and distribution of birds. The wildlife which has still managed to survive around us despite the atrocities of urbanisation fails to get acknowledged. The idea of Campus Bird Count is to plant the seed of valuing and observing these species, since even they have begun facing threats, and the first step towards their conservation is their documentation.

Campus Bird Count was held this year between 14-17 February as an offshoot of the Great Backyard Bird Count. This year, 127 species of birds were counted across 21 participating campuses across Delhi NCR.

It is encouraged that more and more such events are organised so as to ignite the joy of watching birds among the students and staff. The beauty of citizen science is that one does not necessarily need to have a background in science to participate. In fact, some of the most sought-after bird watchers in the world are people who watch birds just for leisure. Therefore, this activity is not restricted to just the science departments. A few summaries of this event are attached with this report.

Here is a list of a few resources for further exploration -

1. Ebird Website (<https://ebird.org/india/home>) - submit bird checklists and explore trends. The “science” section describes how this tool can be used to understand bird abundances, range boundaries, habitats, and trends.
2. Oriental Bird Images (<http://orientalbirdimages.org>) - to access bird images
3. Xeno-canto (<https://www.xeno-canto.org>) - to submit and access bird calls
4. Merlin (<https://merlin.allaboutbirds.org>) - Mobile app for free, instant bird ID help for 4,500+ birds for North and South America, Europe, Asia, and Australia
5. State of India’s Birds report (<https://www.stateofindiasbirds.in>) - the first comprehensive assessment of the distribution range, trends in abundance, and conservation status for most of the bird species that regularly occur in India using bird data.
6. “The birds of the Delhi area: An annotated checklist.” By Sudhir Vyas - a beautifully laid out checklist of birds observed in Delhi area so far with mentions of historic records. Published in Indian Birds.
7. Handbook of the Birds of India and Pakistan by Salim Ali and S. Dillon Ripley - detailed natural history information on all birds of India and Pakistan.

SUMMARIES

Most reported species

This is a list of the top ten species whose individuals were most reported.

| S.No. | Species Common Name | Species Scientific Name | Total Number of Individuals Reported |
|-------|----------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1 | Rock Pigeon (Feral Pigeon) | Columba livia (Feral Pigeon) | 989 |
| 2 | Common Myna | Acridotheres tristis | 459 |
| 3 | House Crow | Corvus splendens | 456 |
| 4 | Black Kite | Milvus migrans | 392 |
| 5 | Rose-ringed Parakeet | Psittacula krameri | 380 |
| 6 | Jungle Babbler | Turdoides striata | 301 |
| 7 | House Sparrow | Passer domesticus | 247 |
| 8 | Red-vented Bulbul | Pycnonotus cafer | 239 |
| 9 | Laughing Dove | Streptopelia senegalensis | 168 |
| 10 | Eurasian Collared-Dove | Streptopelia decaocto | 166 |

Campus-wise breakdown

Number of species observed may depend on various factors. These include the size of green cover in the campus and the amount of effort put into documentation, among others. All observations made during the event were uploaded in the form of checklists on Ebird. The number of bird checklists submitted and amount of time spent birding is a measure of effort.
