SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT Amity University Madhya Pradesh ensure availability and sustainable management of water and sanitation for all. The university campus is charismatically clean & green and all efforts are in placed to make it an environmental friendly. Some of the initiatives undertaken by Amity University Madhya Pradesh are Rain Water Harvesting to improve the ground water level, waste sewage water treatment plant etc

1. Solid waste is generated by all the staff, students and visitors who visit the campus regularly. This waste is generated in the form of packing materials, unserviceable/retrieved maintenance items, stationery paper, food items and dry leaves fallen from trees on the roads/ parking.
2. The stationery paper waste and other food items is collected in the waste bins (both degradable and non-degradable) installed in the academic blocks in sufficient numbers. The waste generated in the academic blocks is transported to the central waste rooms and further segregated into sellable and other unusable. And finally, both the sellable and unused waste is lifted by the local vendor for which he pays monthly charges.
3. The waste retrieved from maintenance items are sold quarterly/half yearly to the local vendor by Board of Staff ordered by Dir Admin.
4. The dry leaves fallen on the roads/parking, is collected by housekeeping staff and are transported to the compost pits available in the campus wherein they are dumped into the pits for making compost naturally.

LIQUID WASTE MANAGEMENT

This liquid is channelized to manhole's installed outside the blocks and further transported to the collection chambers and further lifted/raised through sewage pumps to the STPs installed in the campus.

RAIN WATER HARVESTING SYSTEM

Why do almost a million people go without daily access to safe water? How does climate change affect adequate water availability? And why does half the world's population goes without adequate sanitation? The Water Without Borders program at Amity University Madhya Pradesh seeks to answer these questions and more.

Rainwater collection systems on campus reduce the university's dependence on municipal water systems, storing the collected water in cisterns. The water is filtered and disinfected for use for both drinking and non-drinking purposes. The Engineering Technology Building was designed to reflect the faculty's strategic plan, engineering a Sustainable Future, and features rainwater harvesting for wastewater flushing and landscape irrigation.

1. The University has 10 Nos of Borewells in the campus. The borewells dug in the campus do not have enough ground water to yield water continuously. Half of the borewells dry up during continuous pumping. To recharge these existing borewells and to restrict the out-flow of rainwater Amity University has constructed 10 Water Harvesting Pits of capacity 30,000 ltrs at various locations (Water Catchment Area) 10 conserve rainwater. These pits have been provided enough filter media to restrict the mud/silt during rains.
2. The above has brought sea change in saving of rainwater and has thus improved the water level, of our borewells which helps us in meeting our water requirement in peak summers.
