Amity Human Values Quarter 2026

The Amity Human Values Quarter (popularly known as the AHVQ) is observed every year from 27th of January to 27th of April, to celebrate the birthday of Dr. (Mrs.) Amita Chauhan, Hon'ble Chairperson, Amity International Schools. It aims to instil human values and ethics in all the students studying in the institutions affiliated to Amity University. Albert Einstein had once said, "Try not to become a man of success but rather, a man of values," and we at Amity University are firm believers of this principle. AHVQ is a forum for students to introspect and realize the importance of values and morals in our daily lives. It urges the students to take a break from their hectic academic schedule and daily chores to realign the priority directed to ethics.

In today's world, where rapid technological change, environmental challenges, and social divisions are reshaping our lives, the need to reconnect with core human values has never been more urgent. The World Values Day 2026 is "Values and Volunteering," focusing on putting personal values into action through kindness and service, rather than obligation. The campaign encourages individuals and organizations to share their values and act on them to improve community connection, responsibility, and shared purpose. As part of the Amity Human Values Quarterly Celebration, we have embraced this powerful theme to inspire meaningful action among students. A range of activities were organized focusing on sustainable development, environmental care, digital literacy, health awareness, cleanliness, workshops, lectures, poster making competition, plantation drive, painting competition, quizzes, teaching underprivileged children and creative reuse through best-out-of-waste projects. These efforts reflect our collective commitment to shaping a future where human values are at the heart of progress and community well-being.

Values are beliefs that are inherent and inculcated with time. The possessor of these values will ensure and exhibit the character of principles, standards, love, compassion, and qualities of great human beings. This year we have tried to align the AHVQ activities with the values of World Values Day—Values and Volunteering.

Some glimpses from the activities conducted under AHVQ 2026

Human Values

Human values are the moral principles and standards that guide individuals in making ethical decisions, fostering harmonious relationships, and contributing positively to society. These values such as honesty, empathy, respect, responsibility, and compassion form the foundation of a well-rounded personality and a cohesive community. In the context of today's rapidly evolving world, the theme of Values for the Future emphasizes the urgent need to instill these timeless principles in younger generations to ensure a more inclusive, sustainable, and value-driven society. As we envision the future, it becomes clear that technological advancement alone cannot build a better world, instead it must be grounded in strong human values. At Amity, human values are seamlessly woven into the academic environment. Through value-based education, community engagement, and a culture of mutual respect, Amity encourages students to practice integrity, compassion, and responsibility in every aspect of life.

The primary objective of the World Values Day is to raise awareness about the importance of values and encourage their practice. It aims to foster a society where individuals are mindful of their values, which in turn can influence actions and contribute to a more compassionate and inclusive world. The celebration also promotes cross-cultural dialogue and understanding of diverse value systems.

It aims to increase awareness of the significance of values in shaping individual lives, communities, and society.

It encourages individuals to reflect on their own values, identify what's important to them, and how they can integrate those values into their daily lives.

- To encourage individuals and organizations to take actions that align with their values, demonstrating how values can be translated into tangible results.
- To promote the exchange of ideas and understanding of diverse value systems across cultures, fostering mutual respect and appreciation for different perspectives.
- To build a more compassionate and inclusive society.
- To connect with others, share their values, and learn from each other.

It aims to inspire individuals, communities, and organizations to act on their values and contribute to positive change in their lives and the world.
